Once again, Patrick George takes classic elements and gives them a visual twist. This is a book which combines a game of 'I spy' with animals, using fun peep-through pages, and the alphabet. Bright colours, clear lettering and a clever use of die-cuts makes this a great combination of learning, reading and visual discovery.

“This works so beautifully as an engaging text for pre-schoolers...”

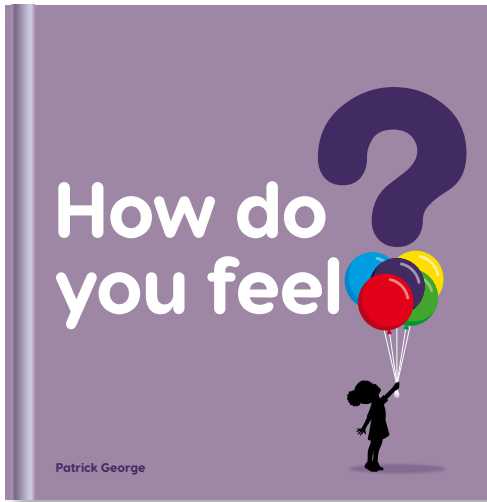

With rich opportunities for exploring habitats, climate and adaptation as well as physical attributes of animals, the vocabulary development and knowledge and understanding of the world that could be gained from using this book in an EYFS setting makes it the perfect text for working with purpose as well as reading for pleasure.”

The Literacy Curriculum 2022

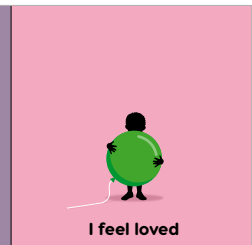

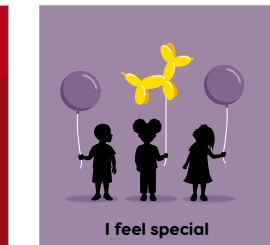

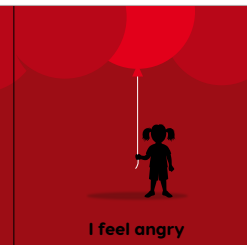

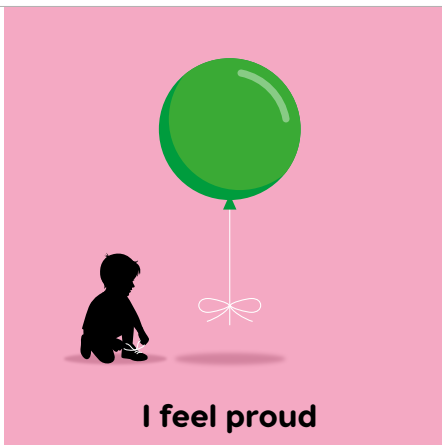

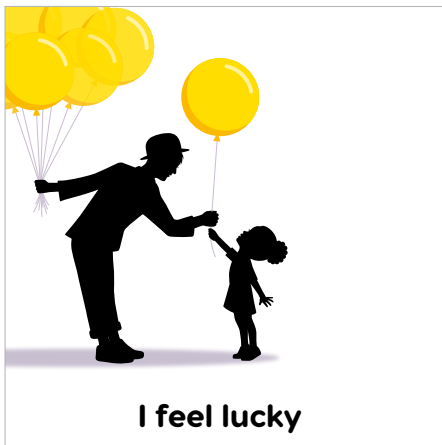

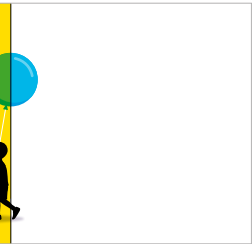

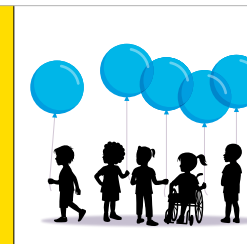

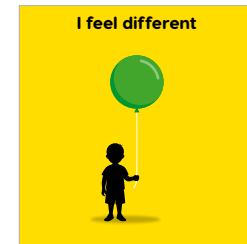

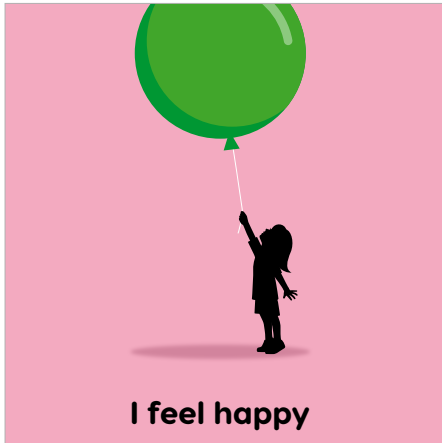

“What an amazing concept for an animal A-Z. Not only is this book educational but it is great fun to read. Both my toddler and 7 year old had fantastic fun guessing which animal may be next by peeping through the hole.”

 £9.99, age: 5+, hardback,
 36pp, 220 x 220mm

"How do you feel?" is a colourful picture book to help children express their feelings. 27 different emotions are illustrated and articulated via children, in silhouette, and a balloon. On each spread, the balloon takes centre-stage in conveying the emotion through its colour, size or shape and this is reflected in the silhouetted figures that accompany it. Featuring colour-coded balloons of red, yellow, green and blue that tie in with the four colour Zones of Regulation, currently used in many primary schools, this book aims to facilitate a wider description of the child's emotional landscape.

"How do you feel? is stunning! A wonderfully inclusive book that explores feelings. Brilliant for starting conversations with even very young children and sophisticated enough to encourage visual literacy development. An essential for every classroom!"

“Showing kids how to be kinder to our planet never looked more stylish and was never more cleverly executed than in this brilliant book!”

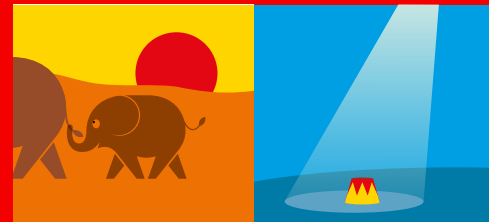

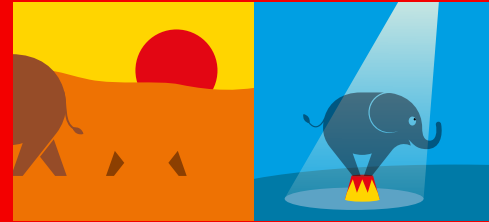

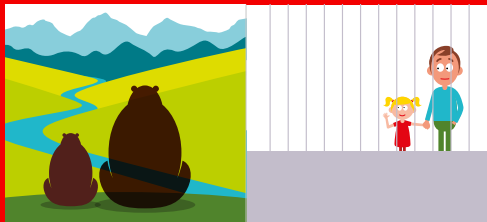

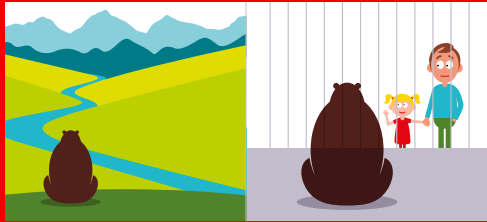

“A book that is both brilliant for use in early years classes to drive class projects around the environment and ecologically sound practices, and one that also uses clever observations and even a touch of deft humour to get its points across (the “eat less meat” page-flip is just superb and SO clever, have to say!)”

"We can only imagine what it is like to be a tiger, an elephant, a crocodile or a turtle. But we can understand why we need to rescue wild animals in need and protect them. That is what makes us human. This book should be the start of every child's journey towards a more compassionate future."

This early learning series makes clever use of the double page spread and flip over acetate to effectively teach the concept. Mixing colours, conveying opposites, spotting shapes in varied landscapes, adding and subtracting, are all dealt with here, with a generous helping of humour and surprise! The images are bold, colourful and uncluttered. The pages are delightfully interactive and make learning fun.
